Three, Dread Ruler of the earth and sky, Accept the praise we yield to Thee, Who,

waking, lift our songs on high.

The other verses

2 Now from the couch of rest we rise,
While solemn night in silence reigns,
And lift to Thee our earnest cries,
To give Thy balm to heal our pains.

3 If in the night by Satan's guile
Our souls were lured by thought of sin;
O bid Thy light celestial smile,
And chase away the night within.

4 Purge Thou our flesh from every stain,
Let not dull sloth our hearts depress;
Nor let the sense of guilt remain,
To chill the warmth our souls possess.

5 To Thee, Redeemer blest, we pray,
That in our souls Thy light may shine;
So we shall walk from day to day,
Unerring in Thy way Divine.

6 Grant it, O Father, in Thy love,
Grant it, O One-begotten Son,
Who with the Spirit reign above,
Now, and while endless ages run.
